

Big Three Foreign Ministers Confer on Disarmament

Plan to Go To Russians On Friday

Stassen to Make Formal Proposal Of Agreement

LONDON (AP) — Western disarmament delegates meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles agreed today to start presenting their joint aerial inspection plan to the Soviet Union either Friday or next week.

Informed sources said U. S. disarmament expert Harold E. Stassen would submit it formally in the U. N. Disarmament Subcommittee. The next meeting is scheduled for Friday.

FRENCH FOREIGN Minister Christian Pineau flew to London today but was delayed in traffic en route from the airport and did not make this morning's two-hour session.

Dulles was expected to fill him in on the details at lunch. Both were scheduled to attend another western session this afternoon. U. S. delegation sources said Stassen's presentation of the new western plan and his step by step explanation of it to Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin would require two weeks more of meetings here.

FRIDAY'S MEETING already twice postponed, is expected to approve a report to the parent Disarmament Committee and request permission for continued meetings of the subcommittee. It was believed Zorin had agreed to this Wednesday at lunch with Dulles and other western delegation chiefs.

London sources said the delegates were agreed on an American "open skies" inspection system but were reported to have encountered West German objections to a Soviet plan to install ground observers in the West.

BUT A WEST German government spokesman in Bonn denied that West German objections to ground inspection were holding up the London disarmament talks. Well informed German sources said any difficulties in the ground inspection scheme arose out of the problem of controlling the inspectors. And the German sources said West Germany was reluctant to see Soviet inspectors roaming about Germany.

A meeting by Dulles, Pineau and Lloyd would be the first Big Three get together since the Suez crisis.

Two Children Found Safe After Search

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP) — Two young children of a vacationing California family were found safe and unharmed today but authorities launched a search for a possible sex deviate.

Cynthia Gibbs, 2, and her brother, Richie, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbs, Alhambra, were found in an adjacent cabin at a motel here where they first were reported missing at 3 a.m. Deputy Sheriff Ed Brooks said he heard the children cry in the cabin and found them awakening from sleep.

Brooks said a dark, heavy set man in the cabin early this morning told officers he hadn't seen the children. The man was gone when officers found the youngsters, and a motel clerk said the cabin had not been registered for an occupant. A doctor was to examine the children for possible molestation.

Gibbs told authorities he awoke early this morning to find the door to their one-room motel quarters open and the children gone.

THERMOMETER HITS 122, JUST ANOTHER DAY

Palm Springs enjoyed (?) the unofficial distinction of having the highest temperatures in the nation yesterday as the thermometer limped to a blistering 122 degrees, the hottest here this year.

Of course, it was just another day to Villagers who apparently noticed no great increase in summer heat—being well acclimated, area residents failed to show signs of heat prostration and business went on as normal.

FIRE DID MORE than an estimated $2,000 damage in the offices of Southern California Freight Lines last night. Started by a refrigerator, the fire burned through the roof of the building and into a record room where it destroyed many years of records that must be kept for the Public Utilities Commission. The alarm was sounded by some teen-age boys who went into the police station at 10:25 p.m. and reported the blaze. Fire Marshal

Warren Heath, above, reported today that the heat of the blaze was so intense that it melted and broke the refrigerator to pieces. The electric motor looked as though it had been taken from a blast furnace. The fire cut off electric current at 10:30, burned through telephone and teletype wires, and caused a large amount of smoke damage in the office. None of the freight in the adjoining warehouse was damaged. (Desert Sun Photo).

State Trooper Clears Way for Runaway Truck

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — State trooper Rex Silbaugh, with a runaway truck bearing down behind him on a treacherous mountain downgrade, cleared the way at speeds of 80 miles per hour Wednesday night to avert a crash.

Glenn Switzer, Fairmont, Neb., driver of the rig loaded with 40,000 pounds of sugar, brought the runaway to a safe halt after navigating it down two and a half miles of mountain roads and through the town of Hopwood, Pa.

IT BEGAN WHEN Silbaugh, driving up the mountain, saw Switzer careening down with brakes smoking, obviously in trouble. The trooper made a quick 180-degree turn and raced ahead of the rig which itself was doing "70 or better."

With sirens blaring, Silbaugh cleared traffic on the mountain road and in Hopwood, with the truck close on his heels.

SPITZER SPED right through town and finally stalled out on an upgrade about one mile on the other side. State police said he got out of the truck, put a piece of wood under a wheel and then collapsed from shock.

Switzer was treated by Hopwood firemen. He was reported in good condition despite his ordeal.

New Construction Suffered In July Due to Trades Strike

New construction suffered greatly during the month of July as builders, painfully pinched by the building trades strike, hammered away at a comparatively mild $399,350 worth of new projects. However, city building officials reported that the month's total tabulated from 79 building permits issued during July, was still above expected outbacks caused by the strike.

Curtailed construction was emphasized by comparison with figures for July, 1956, when a total of $1,105,400 worth of new buildings went up here.

BUT DESPITE the strike reduced construction, building from Jan. 1 to date marked a comfortable $7,303,045 — only slightly below the $8,043,934 registered for the same period last year.

Biggest chunk of last month's city building effort was devoted to new homes and swimming pools. Sixteen new dwellings accounted for $288,500 of the month's total construction, while a bumper crop of 35 swimming pools absorbed $141,000.

OTHER PERMITS and construction costs listed by the city building department included 16 alterations and additions to dwellings, $28,350; four apartments, involving 13 units, $70,500; four hotel additions and alterations, $9,000; one new commercial building, $19,000.

Two commercial additions and alterations, $15,000; one new industrial building, $30,000.

Police Check 388 Empty Homes During Summer

Palm Springs police are currently keeping a careful watch over 388 empty homes, all vacated by residents enjoying summer vacations elsewhere.

Police Chief August Kettmann said the annual summer check of vacant homes is very successful and only a few cases of minor break-ins have been reported.

Home owners planning on leaving the village for any period of time are urged to fill out a vacant property report at the police station.

All homes so listed are periodically checked by regular police patrols. Reports concerning the property are sent to absent Villagers.

Nudists Hold National Convention at Los Gatos, Plan Campaign to Secure Beaches

By ROBERT STRAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
SACRAMENTO (AP) — Don't worry. It's like a doctor's office. You won't be embarrassed."

That's what they say when you drive up to the locked gate of a nudist colony, surrounded by a bamboo thicket. Inside, a pleasant young woman asks if you wouldn't like to don the costume of everyone else.

"Otherwise people will stare at you." Shifting nervously from one foot to the other, you glance at hundreds, wearing hats and shoes, and frolicking in the park. They are lunging into the air at volleyball, pitching horseshoes, splashing in a swim pool, or dozing comfortably under an oak tree.

ing your wallet in case you want to buy pop. You leave it on the grass where it will still be hours later.

THESE ARE SOME of the experiences you would have if you were reporting on the convention of the Western Sunbathing Association at Oak Leaf Ranch, Wilton, a meeting preparatory to the national get-together at Los Gatos, Calif., now underway.

Notebook in hand, you ask people why they are nudists. Some answers: "We like sunshine and fresh air. We don't think our maker intended humans to be covered in the sun."

"It's a delightfully unencumbered way of life. Each time you want to swim, you jump in the pond. No bother with dressing rooms, checking things, and slipping into wet, cold suits."

is anything about the human body that needs concealment. Evil is in the mind, not the body."

Inquire if nudity is provocative, and they say not at all. "Bikinis are much more suggestive." You look around, and decide that if the people were wearing clothes the scene would be a typical church picnic. In fact, most of the time you forget that it is not.

CONVERSATION is largely about volleyball, or club politics, or who has the cutest hat, or who is going to win the ping pong trophy.

Almost everyone is with his family, and the ages run the gamut—eight weeks to 80 years. Many of those present are adolescents. Their parents say sunbathing is a deterrent to juvenile delinquency. The teenagers aren't bothered with curiosity about sexual differences and don't think smutty jokes to be funny.

Nudists are optimistic about the future of their movement. Sol Stern, of San Francisco, the WSA president, says it is gaining more and more public acceptance, and many nudists make no secret

Senate Halts Rights Talk For Today

Acts After Plea From White House On Appropriations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate agreed today to halt its civil rights debate temporarily to act on new appropriations for the Defense Department.

It did so after the White House warned that 1,250,000 civilian employees of the Defense Department and 2,800,000 military personnel faced the prospect of going without paychecks.

THE WHITE HOUSE, in a special statement, pleaded that the Senate also act on the Agriculture Department's money bill and a resolution to let several other agencies keep spending until their appropriation bills are ready for consideration.

The Senate was expected to agree to take up the agriculture measure also later today, but the fate of the resolution for the other agencies was uncertain. Unanimous consent would be required to take it up, and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) has blocked previous attempts to consider the move. He has insisted that the Senate vote first on the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill.

OTHER CONGRESSIONAL news: Status of forces: The House Armed Services Committee voted 31 to 4 to restrict the government's power to turn U. S. service-men over to foreign courts.

Rackets: Lester Washburn, who was forced out as president of the AFL Auto Workers for ousting Johnny Dio as its business manager, told the Senate Rackets Committee the New York hoodlum once worked on a "special assignment" for David Dubinsky's Ladies Garment Workers.

Tamarisk Club To Be Enlarged

Harry J. Drewery, managing director of Tamarisk Country Club, today announced the awarding of the contract for enlargement of the clubhouse to Press Construction Company of Palm Springs.

Work is to be started immediately and will call for an addition of approximately 4,000 square feet. Plans call for new locker rooms, massage room, steam room, showers, golf cart storage, and parking area. Plans were prepared by John F. Outcault of Palm Desert.

Oklahoma Guards Block Roads to Stop Anthrax

VINITA, Okla. (UP) — National Guardsmen today manned roadblocks on all roads in this area in an attempt to keep an outbreak of a deadly livestock disease from spreading.

The guardsmen are permitting no livestock to leave the area plagued with an outbreak of anthrax which Harold Hutton, Oklahoma Board of Agriculture president, terms the second most severe in the nation during the past 15 years.

Gov. Raymond Gary, acting on Hutton's advice, dispatched the guard to Craig County in North-eastern Oklahoma to enforce the quarantine when reports of farmers and ranchers shipping stock and produce out of the area were received.

The guardsmen were instructed to prevent movement of livestock, poultry, milk and eggs from the area. All cars and trucks were being stopped. If the vehicles contained any animals whatsoever, including pets such as dogs and cats, the motorists names and addresses were recorded.

All livestock and produce from the area was being turned back, and only trucks with stock passing through the area could continue.

Approximately 150 animals have died. The disease is fatal to cattle, hogs, sheep and other animals and is dangerous to human life.

Cattlemen have been burning the carcasses of their animals as a precautionary measure.

Council Approves Project Bids, Plans at $211,088 Cost

The approval of working plans and specifications for the new library addition and fire station, plus the letting of bids for ten other items, tallied an expenditure of $211,088 at the second meeting of the City Council for the new fiscal year.

The council gave the city administration a green light to advertise for bids on the new $83,000 fire station and the $10,000 addition to the Welwood Murray Memorial Library, and awarded bids on the following:

RAMON ROAD widening—awarded to the low bidder, Match Brothers of Colton, for $22,211.10. The bid includes the widening of Ramon Road from Sunrise Way to the front of the high school and the installation of curbing on the north side to the high school and the construction of curbs at the Ramon-Sunrise Way intersection.

City Hall Site Development—awarded to William A. Foster of Palm Springs for the low bid of $43,876, and includes the construction of walks, drives, parking areas and clearing of the site.

City Hall Landscaping—awarded to Neel's Nursery of Palm Springs for a bid of $12,842.55. The contract was awarded to the local nursery because of the firm's close proximity to the job and because of its bid to return 100 percent cost of any unused items.

TAHQUITZ DRIVE Widening —

CONGRESSMAN CALLS PRESIDENT 'A LOUSY LIAR'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.) called President Eisenhower "a lousy liar" today.

He hurled the name at the President for denying responsibility for killing the $1,500,000 school construction bill.

Bailey, a chief Democratic sponsor of the measure, also said Eisenhower would be "playing politics in an election year" if he asks Congress next year to approve a school construction bill.

"He had his chance this year," Bailey told a United Press reporter. Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday that despite House defeat of the school bill last week he will offer another school bill next year. Eisenhower also rejected charges by House Democrats that he did not work for the bill this year.

Alignment Would Give Great Power

AFL-CIO Leaders Said Worrying Over Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Bridges, head of the West Coast International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, would like to see a merger of his union with the East Coast International Longshoremen's Union and the Teamsters Union, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

In a copyrighted story, Bridges was quoted as saying "If the teamsters and the two dock unions go together they'd represent more economic power than the combined AFL-CIO."

THE THREE UNIONS would present such a concentrated power bloc that "an economic squeeze and pressure could be exerted that puts any employer in a very tough spot, and furthermore puts the U. S. government on a tough spot," the story quoted Bridges.

"If the AFL-CIO meets us head-on we'd knock the stuffing out of them. We'd fight on their own ground and win." Bridges was quoted.

The dispatch said that AFL-CIO leaders are doing considerable worrying about the possibility of such a merger as either of the two leaders mention.

It said at least one of AFL-CIO President George Meany's chief lieutenants is predicting that should the teamsters leave the AFL-CIO they will hook up with not only the dockworkers but five other labor organizations which have been or will be the targets of AFL-CIO clean-up drives.

40 Youngsters Enjoy Outing At Disneyland

Forty Palm Springs youngsters are enjoying the still-fresh memory of a Disneyland Adventure today, following a day-long outing at the fabulous funland.

All 40 are Palm Springs Boys Club members who were treated to the Disneyland trip yesterday by club directors. The boys were carted to Disneyland via bus and handed 10 tickets each. They had lunch, spent the rest of the afternoon on their favorite rides and then rode back to the resort and a free show at the Village Theater.

AKRON, Ohio UP — The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has announced a 3 per cent increase in tire prices, effective today.

NEW YORK UP — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, 72, will fly to Russia Aug. 30 for a month's tour of the nation whose government radio called her a "sworn enemy of peace and democracy" only five years ago.

PARIS UP — Christian Dior displayed a controversial, contradictory style today that plunged necklines to the waist for evening wear, but kept dresses sacky and sexless for daytime. The silhouette evokes the flapper days of the 20s, in what he calls the "Smuggle Line."

Zaddie Bunker Receives Top Honors From London Flying Club During Trip

Zaddie Bunker, Palm Springs' Flying Great-grandmother, who is currently on a tour of Europe, was presented with an unique honor, an honorary membership in the Royal Aero Club in London, England, it was learned here today.

According to correspondence from Palm Springs' own Goodwill Ambassador, she was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the club and was presented the honorary membership.

IN THE SAME correspondence, Zaddie wrote that she has seen many Palm Springs people while touring Europe. She met the Art Baileys (of Smoke Tree) in Rome and the Hugh Burns in Lucerne, Switzerland. On her way to Europe, she met Mrs. George Ritter of Palm Springs.

And the Flying Great-Grandmother isn't wasting any time while traveling over the world, for in a recent letter she reported that on July 19 she was in Ireland and visited Lake Killarney on July 20. She was in Scotland July 30, and will go on to England where she will be the guest of Lord and Lady Bryan Essendon of Hatfield, Herts, England, who are frequent visitors in Palm Springs in the winter.

WHILE IN England she will visit with the Duke and Duchess of Richmonds, who will have as their guests at the same time Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Zaddie is due to return to Palm Springs late in August, and she writes to her sister, Mrs. Pauline Naggi, "the good ol' U.S.A. is still top with me."

The first operation for removal of an appendix was performed in 1885 by Dr. William W. Grant of Davenport, Ia.

Prison Board Promises New Recreation Facility

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—The Montana Board of Prison Commissioners promised restless state prison convicts today to convert an onion garden in the yard into a playground.

This was the one definite concession the 600 prisoners won after a riot they staged Tuesday. The disturbance ended early Wednesday but the last of the inmates was not locked in his cell until Wednesday afternoon.

THE RIOTERS caused extensive damage to cell block 3, the focal point of the riot, and to the administration building.

Before ending the riot, the prisoners sent a list of grievances to state officials. Indications were some of them were justified.

Three out of state wardens made a study of the prison earlier this

Club Group Wins Many Prizes on TV

Five local club members who appeared on Bill Layden's TV program, "It Could Happen to You" Monday in Los Angeles, came home with some valuable prizes and one with a cement mixer for her school teacher husband, so he could complete the cement patio he started before his brother unavailably had to have the cement mixer he had loaned him.

The five girls, members of the Palm Springs Federated Junior Women's Club, who appeared on the program and won prizes were Shirley Larson, who besides winning the cement mixer won an electric skillet, Mary Ann Koehler, who also won an electric skillet, Mary Ratcliff and Dorothy Anderson, Bulova wrist watches.

Holly Wahlberg, whose mother is a member of the club, won an RCA TV set. Because she had been married three years and never had a honeymoon, Jo Ann Sales won a belated all expense paid honeymoon trip to Las Vegas. She and her husband have been loaned a 1957 De Soto car to drive and will be guests at El Rancho Vegas.

Other members attending who did not appear on the program were Mary Carlin, Bunny Kimberly, Paula Kouwenhoven and Jo Ann Sale. Before returning to the Village a few of the members went on to the Brown Derby for lunch.

At the Monday evening meeting of the club held at the home of club president Mary Ratcliff plans were completed for the De Anza district meeting of Junior Federated Women's Clubs to be held here Oct. 12.

Walter Family Returns to Village After 4,000 Mile Vacation Motor Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce A. Walter and their 7-month-old daughter have returned to the Village after a 4,000-mile motor trip.

They traveled to Zion National Park and from there to Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, where they visited with Mrs. Walter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Parry, for a week.

They had their daughter, Maia, christened while there. Their trip then took them to Mount Rainier National Park where they spent a few days with Dr. Walter's father, E. R. Walter, in his rustic cabin, and with friends in Seattle.

They returned to the Village via the coast route, stopping in San Francisco.

The first performance of the sixth annual Shakespearean Festival at the Idyllwild Arts Foundation, Idyllwild, will be "Taming of the Shrew," on Friday, Aug. 2, at 8:30 p. m.

Maureen McIlroy and Engle Conrow, who play the leads in this production, will also present their own production of "Shakespeare's" scenes from the plays of Shakespeare, on Saturday, Aug. 3, at 8:30 p. m.

Miss McIlroy and Conrow come to Idyllwild with a wide theatrical background. They are both products of the New York stage, having appeared in many Broadway productions. They have been associated with America's leading theatre enterprises including American Repertory Theatre, American Theatre Wing, New York Repertory Theatre, United Nations Festival, American National Theatre and Academy and the Equity Library Theatre.

For the past year and a half

Miss McIlroy and Conrow, known as the Mews, have been touring as a duo in their own production, "Shakespeare's." This is a series of highlights from the Bard complete with costume, music and decor. Stan Hughes, as a minstrel, establishes the Elizabethan atmosphere with ballads and lute between scenes.

Other performances of "Taming of the Shrew" at the Idyllwild Arts Foundation will be on Aug. 4, 9 and 10, with a special performance in Banning on Thursday, Aug. 8.

Editor's Corner

PEOPLE SOON FORGET

(NOTE: I recently received a letter from a friend (whom we'll call Bill) in which he criticizes President Eisenhower for a failure to understand economy, much less practicing it. I am using my letter in reply for today's editorial.)

Dear Bill:

I can sympathize somewhat with your feelings because I also was a "Taft diehard" and believe that Mr. Republican would have made a great president. Like other Taft supporters I found it somewhat difficult at first to support General Eisenhower, particularly because his nomination was engineered in part by some New Deal Republicans.

Nevertheless, we had to face the fact that things were in a terrible mess at Washington. We were still fighting a war in Korea which our soldiers were not permitted to win. Through blunders, selfish egotism and even downright disloyalty of those in high places in the last two administrations we had betrayed China and turned over ten countries to Russian domination. Adlai Stevenson was not the man to bring about a change.

It takes only this glance backward to realize how fortunate we are to have a man in the White House with the integrity and patriotic devotion to public service that Dwight Eisenhower possesses. Most of the world problems which President Eisenhower and the State Department faced at that time and have had to struggle with ever since are due largely to these blunders and disloyal acts of a communist-infected State Department. This is a fact that cannot be denied.

Eisenhower may be no super-diplomat but he has had an excellent background and is possessed of some mighty fine qualifications to lead this nation out of its international difficulties. For this the American people should be eternally thankful. In addition to his unquestioned integrity and patriotism he knows and faces the facts of history. He is well acquainted with the long range designs of unfriendly as well as friendly nations and is not easily fooled. The enormity of the complex world problems which faced the Eisenhower administration at the very outset seems even worse in retrospect. No wonder the long road back to an honest and sensible foreign policy has been such a difficult one. We must look back for ten or even twenty years — like you have done in the case of Senator Taft — to appreciate the great task that confronts our President.

Domestic Affairs Secondary

You must admit that the very circumstances under which Eisenhower was nominated handicapped him to some extent from the very start. He is not a politician and has had to deal with an unfriendly faction within the Republican party, which, although small, has been effective with the balance of power so close in Congress. Ike is obviously not so well versed in domestic affairs as Taft would have been as president. He has been justly criticized for some domestic policies of the present administration.

We must face the fact, however, that the cause of world peace is of upmost importance at this time. While we must be constantly on guard against the destruction of this nation from within our own borders the cause of world peace is a paramount issue today. Critics of President Eisenhower — particularly on the grounds of domestic economy — should not lose sight of this fact; nor should they fail to realize how fortunate we are to have as our leader at this time a man whose honor, integrity and loyalty are beyond reproach.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

The Mallory Case

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Forgive us our virtues when they carry us to extremes! The upright man becomes the bent-backwards pietist. The dignified and eloquent statesman becomes the pompous and bombastic windmill. The kindly judge with tolerance for human frailty becomes the duped confederate of the thief, the traitor, the anarchist and the vandal who prey upon a law-abiding, long-suffering community.

This overextension of goodness seems to have happened to the Supreme Court since we commenced worshipping the graven image called "the common man." It is a political form of command-breaking which the House Subcommittee on Revision of Laws is now investigating.

CHAIRMAN EDWIN E. WILLIS (D., La.) is a thick-set Southern lawyer with streaky, stand-up hair and a penetrating manner of inquiry. He is beginning the probe — as all good chairmen should — with a preconception that something is wrong and that his investigation will prove it.

Congressman Willis has already said for quotation that the Justices of the Supreme Court have been usurping the law-making and executive powers which properly belong to Congress and the President. How have the Justices done this? On the basis of the recent record, they have done it by their overconcern for the individual and their show-off hostility toward the rest of our American society.

The Willis subcommittee has begun by a study of the Supreme Court decision in the case of Mallory v. United States. This Mallory was picked up in the District of Columbia for a crime to which he confessed and for which he was then arraigned. Upon appeal, the Supreme Court released Mallory on the grounds that he was kept in the police station overnight before the arraignment and that he confessed to a crime without being properly and publicly told what it was.

WHAT IS THE effect of this decision upon our police work and jurisprudence? U. S. Attorney for the District of Columbia, Oliver Gasch, says that police officers, veterans as well as the rookies, are so confused that they hesitate to arrest even a red-headed criminal who makes a confession. His case will almost surely be tossed out of court if the confession seems to be ill-timed.

It is conceivable, according to Gasch, that an orthodox confession made after arraignment could be nullified if the defendant appeared to be repeating one he had made beforehand.

GASCH'S BOSS, Assistant Attorney General Warren Olney III, of the criminal division, has described the Mallory decision as a boon to organized crime. It gives the "kept" lawyers and moneymen of gangland another gimmick with which to "spring" their clients. Congressman Kenneth B. Keating (R., N. Y.), ranking minority member of the House Judiciary committee, has a bill (H. R. 8600) to straighten out this absurd tangle. Keating says:

"The bill that I am introducing would simply provide that any delay in arraigning an accused person such as Mallory, in and of itself, could not constitute grounds for keeping a confession out of evidence."

STUDY OF THE Mallory case is merely the first step of the Willis subcommittee in pursuing the alleged misuse of the Supreme Court. The path of inquiry now heads toward the Court's various rulings on the anti-subversive laws, FBI records, the Girard case, Congressional investigations, and the use and misuse of the Bill of Rights. Chairman Willis feels that this is an unprecedented task because never in the history has the Court been so conspicuously stronger than either the Congress or the White House. It is no secret in town that President Eisenhower was just as furious over the Court's opening of the FBI files to defendants as any Congressman has been over other alleged usurpations.

CONGRESSMAN WILLIS insists that he is not investigating the Court, merely the Court's decisions. But in trying to narrow the scope of his probe, he has, in my opinion, done just the reverse — he has broadened the scope to encompass not merely the Supreme Court but the nature of our American government.

It appears to be that we have passed from our proper concern for the individual to an inordinate pride in ourselves as individual protectors. We have made a fetish of individualism until the pillars of society are neglected and in jeopardy.

It is like the bored children in the ultra-progressive school who beat up the teacher, and set fire to the building in the name of freedom. These children never learn one of the first laws of self-government — the difference between liberty and license.

lous and meaningless. It is fraught with danger.

AID COMES FROM TAXES

(Sac City, Iowa, Sun)

We talk about federal aid and we seem to believe that the government can hand out grants without reservation, to any group that requests it. We seem to fail to realize that before the government can provide aid to the hundreds and hundreds of groups who are asking for it, that the money must be forthcoming from someone, and that someone is Mr. Average Taxpayer.

Don't flip that butt
Still glowing red,
You may destroy
Some watershed.

Your automobile is undoubtedly equipped with an ash tray. Use it. Blackened scenery isn't pretty. Right now and until the first real rains come, it's especially dangerous and calls for special caution and thoughtfulness.

Besides it's against the law and down here Chief of Police Gus Kettmann and Fire Chief Bill Leonosio and their boys will take you apart if they catch you.

REMINDS ME of an incident the other day, observed while riding a bus. Fellow, standing at a corner in some withered grass, flipped his cigarette carelessly as the bus-door opened.

He got on. The bus driver got off. Walked over to the cigaret stub, tropped on it and got back on. Watched the guy dump his nicks in the box and drove off.

Was the smoker embarrassed? No, he muttered something about officious characters and complained about the delay.

WITH ALL THIS furor over the effects of cigaret smoking, was interested in a UP dispatch from Singapore. It described an experiment which caused doctors to agree that hypnosis may be the answer for those who want to quit cigarettes but haven't the will power.

A veteran smoker was hypnotized and told that he could not smoke because he would feel a flame in his throat and fire in his chest. When he came out of it, the subject lit a cigaret, took a puff, and got rid of it fast.

Second time he tried, same thing. The catch is that the hypnotist said it would take 10 sessions to cure a chain-smoker.

THERE'S A SIGN on the highway near Banning designating the property owner as a "flag-pole sitter." Probably an "ex." Had thought flag-pole sitters, like marathon dancers, were extinct. Figured they had found out they could make an easier living with the other end.

But from Montreal a dispatch reveals a woman is perched atop a flagpole and going to stay until she sets a record. Wants to show that women are better than men. Will sitting on a flag pole prove anything?

TWO COMMENTS by women this week cause me to wonder if I have been insulted.

Louise McCann, of the city office, asked our Mr. Kenneth Brott for my telephone number at the beach. He told her. The prefix is Hemlock.

"Tell him to look out," she said. "That's what Socrates drank. He passed out — but good."

Did she mean to compare me with Socrates or advise me to take poison?

And Mrs. G called my attention to this definition of "Papa" in a cross-word dictionary.

"Baboon, dad, father, potato, priest, vulture."

Baboon, yet. Anyway it was half good.

INEZ ROBB:

Famous for Trial

WILD OAT FARM, N.J. — Down the road a four-mile piece and across the Raritan River lies Flemington, whose citizens recoil as from a snake when some tactless visitor burbles, "Oh, this is the town that's famous for the Hauptmann trial, isn't it?"

And this will end another beautiful, burgeoning friendship. "We are famous for other things too," the proud resident is apt to snap. If he is not too angry, he may even explain, before he stomps off, that the poor little Lindbergh baby was not kidnapped in lovely Hunterdon County, of which Flemington is the county seat, but in a county next door.

The trial was held in Flemington only because the body was found a few yards inside the Hunterdon County line. But every citizen of Flemington hated the trial and everyone connected with it, except the sad, young Lindberghs. And in all the years since 1933, the town has been trying to live down its days in the klieg.

It is wont to inform outsiders that this part of New Jersey was a breadbasket of the new nation in the years of the Revolution, that there was brisk fighting in these regions and that George Washington, if he didn't actually sleep here, at least knew the region and would like to have slept here if he'd had a chance.

There are also fine legends to the effect that the canny farmers in this region sold their supplies to the British Army for fancy prices by day, and then at night captured them back in sprightly guerrilla skirmishing to give them (the supplies) next day to the rebels.

And now there is new balm for the Flemington soul in a recent book, "The Gingerbread Age," a tome on American Victorian architecture by John Maass.

"Flemington has one of the prettiest main streets in America," Maass says, and residents hope that people who read this will tend to forget about the trial.

And Maass couldn't be righter. In the nine years that Wild Oat Farm has held me in seffdom, I have loved every excuse that has taken me into this village with its quiet, pleasant streets shaded by huge, old trees whose boughs overlap to form a cool, shadowy tunnel in summer.

This may be a small town, but the citizens a hundred years ago—some more, some less—built lovely big houses that have only mellowed and grown more beautiful with age. If the age of Victoria marked many of these old mansions, so did the Greek Revival. That revival left its imprint not only on stately homes but on the old country courthouse (1828) where Richard Bruno Hauptmann was tried and convicted.

The old, three-storied, red brick hotel with its wide piazza (still equipped with rocking chairs) and its flower boxes filled with geraniums and petunias is also highly regarded by Maass. (Innumerable newsmen from all over the world who stayed there during the Hauptmann trial will never forget it!)

The house especially singled out as unique by Maass is one I have long hoped would be either left to the town or acquired by it. It is a real Victorian fruitcake, built in 1854, a wooden replica of the Italian stone villas so much admired by our grandfathers. It is a generous three-story house with a central tower in front. There is, of course, a carriage house to match. It deserves preservation.

But then, so does the whole village. It is a beautiful remnant of a time before the row house and the suburban development, and even the two supermarkets on Main Street cannot detract from it.

EARL WILSON:

Hey, There! Nicky Hilton!

NEW YORK — Natalie Wood and I discussed her guy, Nicky Hilton.

"Are you engaged?" I asked. She shook her head. "No."

"Committed?" I asked... this time she spoke the word "No."

"Going steady?" ... Another "No."

"Aw, you're allowed to go steady — you're a teen-ager!" said.

Natalie, who was 19 recently, broke up over my witless remark. Still a teen-ager, she can't think of herself as one. And the way she operated to snatch the role of "Marjorie Morningstar" from 35 other applicants was wondrously adult.

"How did I get it?" she said over lunch at 21. "I just asked Herman Wouk for it. Right here. At this table!"

She'd learned—after reading his gargantuan tome about Jewish life away out east on West End Avenue—that he had to approve the girl playing "Marjorie."

"Was it your agent's idea?" "It was my idea. My agent arranged the meeting."

"Did you do a real selling job?" "Not too much. I just told him I'd read the book and would like to test for the part. I figured it was better to show them than to talk about it."

And now Natalie—whose parents were Greek Orthodox while she's Episcopalian—is running around New York helping test others for lesser roles, and wondering who her leading man'll be.

"My choice? Monty Clift. Kirk Douglas'd be terrific. Gene Kelly? I think there's a problem of age."

"Mary Martin's son, Larry Haggman, is wonderful in the off-B'way show we saw, but for the second male lead it looks like Conrad Jennings. He's a cross between Sinatra and Widmark. That's a pretty good cross!"

Natalie wasn't commenting about Elvis Presley, whom she once visited in Memphis, even to riding his motorcycle. She lowered her eyes when I mentioned Elvis, and it didn't seem gentlemanly to harass her.

She thinks Nicky Hilton's a doll and mentioned that nowadays he neither smokes or drinks. They might get married, of course, but Natalie insists she's not the domestic type.

"Oh, I'm VERY domestic," she bragged. "I know how to call room service."

HOLLYWOOD — The Arlington Theatre in Santa Barbara, Calif., is trying something new: Saturday midnight spook shows at which teenage customers plead with the spirit of Jimmy Dean to return to earth!... I PACKED MY portableUnderwood-Amplex-Schick Shaver-Milton Dispenser for a weekend at the Star 1 Tribune's annual Aquatennial celebration in Minneapolis, along with Jayne Mansfield, Jimmy Stewart, Eddie Fisher and Mickey Hargitay. I had the pleasure of lining up Miss Mansfield for the event at the request of the Minneapolis Star & Tribune's Bill Steven and Otto Silha.

Jayne brought along a lot of those low-cut gowns to plug her new movie, "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" — the kind that had the male Minneapolisians waiting around for her to stand up, in case the gowns didn't... Jayne and Mickey played chess throughout our pleasant flight.

We had an audience of 10,500 in the Minneapolis Auditorium and over 1,000 were turned away because there wasn't enough room — which I hope will encourage Hollywood's studio nabobs to send more of their stars on these junkets.

COMING BACK, we stopped in Chicago. Walking across Michigan Avenue from the Tavern Club to see Oscar Peterson at the London House, a fan ran up to Jayne and said, "Your fur is dragging on the ground, Miss Mansfield." Giggled Jayne: "Thanks, sweetie, but it's part of the act"... The Hargitay-Mansfield marriage looks like it will take place in late October or early November. Her divorce from Paul Mansfield will be final Oct. 23.

As for Minnesota's mosquitoes, they're not anywhere near as big as New Jersey's — but why is it necessary to maintain a separate landing strip at the airport for them?... Withal, I hope you invite me back again next year,

Eddie Gorme and Steve Lawrence are making noises about getting married... Criticized for showing up late to work for her new movie, Susan Strasberg looked the director straight in the eye and said, "Why not — after all, Kim Novak and Ava Gardner take three hours to get ready!"

Poem pried from "Any Number Can Play," Clifton Fadiman's new book: "Mr. Cecil B. DeMille, sorely against his will, was persuaded to leave Moses out of the Wars of the Roses."

TV TOPICS — The inside story on why Barbara Hale didn't land the role of Danny Thomas's wife in his new TV series, in Barbara's own words: "I was about to sign. Then they found out I was going to have a baby. Lucille Ball had had a baby on TV. Danny's producers decided they couldn't follow the same story line. I was out."

Dorothy Collins, off The Hit Parade after seven years, is spreading her talents to include acting. Doty declares: "I don't want to be demure — I want to be sensuous."

MISS COLLINS started on Parade singing the commercials for $750 a week; when she left she was getting $2,500 a week. She says that's why they fired the old singing cast and are getting a new cast — it was just getting too expensive.

"As for singing on one show for seven years and for that much money, it's too long, claims Miss Collins — "as a matter of fact, it's like being in a gold-lined coffin, and now I'm happy because I'm free and ready for other fields, preferably acting."

A toy company will sponsor four of Shirley Temple's old 20th Fox pictures on TV this fall... Edsel is trying to rope Rosemary Clooney for the Bing Crosby-Frank Sinatra salute to Gonzaga University on CBS-TV Oct. 13. Jerry Lewis overheard it in the Sands gambling casino in Las Vegas: "I can't do any gambling tonight — my wife blew the family bankroll on the rent!"

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress, the governor of the state of Washington and the National Boxing Assn. are on trial today in the case of amateur boxer Pete Rademacher.

Rademacher is the Olympic heavyweight champion. But Rademacher, who is scheduled to fight heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Seattle on Aug. 22, is a comparative novice who never has gone more than three rounds and never had a professional bout.

He is a potential corpse. Just as the police stop people from destroying themselves, so with the evidence at hand should those with the power — Congress, Washington's governor or the NBA-step in and prevent this dangerous farce.

"I WANT TO GET the feel of one good pro fight," Rademacher said recently.

He could get it first hand today from a man named Tommy Jackson. Jackson had 35 pro fights before he faced Patterson's sledgeing fists Monday night. Against Patterson, a punishing puncher, he was a human shock absorber whose kidneys collapsed in painful protest.

"They tell me I can make $10,000 out of this fight," said Rademacher several weeks ago.

He might ask young Courchesne, a veteran of 50 professional bouts, how much that money is worth when you lie in a hospital bed fighting for your life after a delicate brain operation.

COURCHESNE'S experience did save him in a fight against Bobby Bell last week.

Rademacher is 29, a part-time amateur who didn't even make the 1952 Olympic team and whose victory in 1956 was a distinct upset. He can punch but he is an unprotected target for a man of Patterson's punishing skills.

They talk of the possibility that he could win with one "lucky" punch. They forget that Patterson, for six years, daily has been studying the grim art of destroying the man who stands in front of him.

Eleven men were killed in the ring last year. Ten died of beatings the year before.

Mhoon-Mhoon Slugs Way to Tie for 2nd

Ends Season With 13-6, Colony Same

Playoffs to Start Tuesday Night, DHS vs. Mhoon

Mhoon & Mhoon slugged their way to an 8-0 victory over the Mexican Colony at the Polo Grounds last night and gained a tie for second place in final Desert Softball League standings.

However, the winners lost a loss of the coin after the game and will be forced to meet the league champion Desert Hot Springs Fireballs in the first game of the playoffs Tuesday night.

IN LAST NIGHT'S game Paul Nielsen, Mhoon & Mhoon's ace pitcher, set down the Mexican Colony on only five hits while striking out three and walking only one.

Top hitting by Bill Enz, Max Milton, Charley Brown and Ted McKinney helped build Nielsen an unshakable lead. Mhoon & Mhoon got rolling late but when they did there was no stopping them. They methodically scored two runs in the fourth, three in the fifth, and three more in the seventh.

ONLY TWO Mexican Colony players reached third base and Joe Luzano's second inning double was their longest hit of the evening.

Mexican Colony will meet M&M Lehigh in the league playoffs Wednesday night.

The score: Mhoon & Mhoon 8, Mexican Colony 0.

Pony League Playoffs Start

Action in the District Pony League Playoffs gets underway at 8:30 tonight with All-Star sluggers from the Desert County Pony League scheduled to lead off the first game at Riverside's Evans Park.

It's the first round in playoffs that may lead to the national Pony League finals in Washington, Pa. TONIGHT'S BATTLE of the All Stars, in which team rosters are filled by three members of each individual team in the league, is billed as a double elimination round tomorrow night.

Winners at Riverside move on to San Bernardino and the regional playoffs. The regional p.o.n.y champs then pack off for Watsonville, Calif., for western playoffs. The final round is the national battle at Washington.

HOPES WERE high in the Desert County camp today as the league wound up its first year in existence here. Desert County League teams include teams from Palm Springs, Banning, Beaumont and two teams from Indio.

Buhl, Once White Sox Property, Pitches Braves to Win, 13 for Him; Races Tighten

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Bob Buhl, who might be pitching the Chicago White Sox toward a pennant except for a little mistake the Sox made, kept the Milwaukee Braves atop the wild National League flag scramble today and is now their high money pitcher.

Bettle-browed Buhl posted victory No. 13 for the Braves Wednesday night, 4-2, on an eight-hitter over the Pittsburgh Pirates to maintain their half-game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals.

IT WAS THE fourth straight win for the hard-throwing right hander and left him second only to the Phillies' Jack Sanford for most victories in the National League.

All this is so much applause for the White Sox, who first signed him to a minor league contract in 1947. It developed the signing took place before his class graduated from high school, so the baseball commissioner made him a free agent and this time he signed with the Braves.

THE CARDINALS kept pace with a 5-1 victory over the Giants behind Herm Wehmeier and third-place Brooklyn moved within two games of the top by beating Chicago twice, 3-2, and 2-1. Fifth-place Cincinnati beat fourth-place Philadelphia, 6-5, in an 11-inning night.

In the AL pennant chase, the New York Yankees increased their league lead to 3 1/2 games by beating their Kansas City "cousins" twice, 2-0 and 5-4. Chicago won a single from Washington, 6-5, while Detroit downed Boston, 5-3, and Cleveland blanked Baltimore, 4-0.

ITEM 3: SAN FRANCISCO holds the all-time minor league attendance record for one season—670,563, set in 1946 when the team won the pennant. If major league baseball would quadruple that when and if the Giants win a title, the attendance should run around 2,800,000.

ITEM 4: San Francisco holds the all-time minor league record for a single series attendance: 111,622 for a seven-game series with Oakland in 1946. The rivalry this time would be with Los Angeles and should be accordingly stronger.

ITEM 5: THINGS can get tough in the West, too. The all-time record for low attendance at a Pacific Coast League game was set in Portland, Ore., vs. Oakland, in 1905. Paid attendance: one.

ITEM 6: Although the Seals appear headed for the PCL pennant this year, San Francisco fans have supported some miserable efforts in the past. In fact, S. F. has won only two pennants in the last quarter of a century. So they won't expect miracles from Stoneham & Company.

ITEM 7: THE Pacific Coast League attendance record for the eight teams was set in 1947 with 4,068,432. That's a minor league record and compares favorably with the major leagues. In the days when all baseball was played in daylight, the league record was 2,235,510—set in 1924.

Facts and Figures on Future Of Giants on Coast Cited

By HAL WOOD
United Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some facts and figures for Horace Stoneham when and if he brings the New York Giants to San Francisco for the 1958 baseball season:

Item 1: When San Francisco had minor league football, a "big" day at the ball park was 12,000. A record was 15,000. Today, with major league football, attendance often runs close to 60,000, and a "bad" day attendance will still run around 35,000.

Item 2: The San Francisco Seals baseball team plays to about 3,000 average for week-day or night games, 10,000 to 15,000 on Sundays. If major league baseball brings as big a percentage increase as did major league football, Stoneham can expect about 12,000 in the park during each week-day game; about 50,000 on Sundays.

Item 3: SAN FRANCISCO holds the all-time minor league attendance record for one season—670,563, set in 1946 when the team won the pennant. If major league baseball would quadruple that when and if the Giants win a title, the attendance should run around 2,800,000.

Item 4: San Francisco holds the all-time minor league record for a single series attendance: 111,622 for a seven-game series with Oakland in 1946. The rivalry this time would be with Los Angeles and should be accordingly stronger.

ord for low attendance at a Pacific Coast League game was set in Portland, Ore., vs. Oakland, in 1905. Paid attendance: one.
